Program Description

The English major prepares students to speak and write with clarity and precision, to conduct research, and to analyze, interpret and synthesize material.

The literature emphasis provides an opportunity for students to develop skills in analyzing literary works and to broaden their intellectual development through the study of the classics and the most recent poetry, novels, and plays. Courses cover material ranging from the Old and New Testaments, Homer, Virgil, and Shakespeare to modern European, British and American poetry, drama, and fiction.

Special Features

Plains Writers Series
Sigma Tau Delta -- National Honor Society
Judas Goat -- Literary Magazine
Hot Papers Contest
Poetry & Fiction Slams
