Program Description

The interior designer plans interior space and all its components such as furniture, furnishings, carpet, and wall treatment and helps to implement the plan chosen which may include purchasing products and overseeing the project. The residential designer works with single-family and multi-family housing. The commercial interior designer works in all kinds of nonresidential settings such as restaurants, offices, schools and other public places.

Special Offerings

FCS 497 - Family and Consumer Sciences Internship (recommended) provides a culminating "hands-on" experience through a work program which blends theory and practice in an interior design setting.
