

Dr. Paul Karr – 2002

Paul Karr, professor of chemistry at Wayne State College received the 2002 State National Bank Teaching Excellence Award at commencement.

This prestigious honor is awarded based upon rigorous standards that require a superior level of teaching effectiveness. Karr was Wayne State's nominee for the Nebraska State College System's George Rebensdorf Teaching Excellence Award.

Dr. Karr has been at Wayne State College since 1993. In addition to teaching a variety of chemistry classes, he conducts undergraduate research for the honors program and chemistry requirements, and serves as an advisor to approximately 50 students each year.

Information taken from the WSC Alumni Newsletter.