Every effort is made to ensure this information is current, but please be aware that some content may have changed. There is no substitute for developing a careful course registration plan in consultation with your advisor. The class sequence listed is suggested only. The final decision rests with the student and academic advisor.

Students typically select a major during the freshman year. It is expected that you will have selected a course of study by your third or fourth semester at Wayne State College. Working with an advisor, you'll begin to learn how to make decisions, incorporate new educational and cultural experiences into your thinking, and assess what you expect from your education and your life. As you become more certain about your interests and learn to evaluate your abilities, you'll become more comfortable about setting short-term and long-range goals. You'll find that choosing an appropriate major becomes a natural - and not too painful - process.
